present invention relates to a method for tracking and locating a beam of ultrasonic energy when the tracking and locating method is used in an ultrasonic tomographic system. More particularly, the invention relates to an ultrasonic tomographic system, such as an ultrasonic medical scanning system, where the excitation of the ultrasonic transducer is mechanically biased to effectively move the ultrasonic transducer while producing the maximum amount of ultrasonic energy. Tracking and locating systems are used in a variety of applications, including the medical, ultrasonic imaging, and other non-destructive inspection fields. Ultrasonic transducers are typically used in the tracking and locating systems because of their non-invasive, non-contact methods of sensing and the quality of the produced images. For example, medical ultrasound scanners use ultrasonic transducers to image living tissue by transmitting ultrasonic energy into the tissue and receiving ultrasonic reflections from the tissue. The time delay between 04aeff104c
